

Roles: Ana

Ana is an intern with The Lost Towns Project. She is currently studying Anthropology at the University of Maryland, College Park, where she is also minoring in Geology. This is her first internship in actual field work and, although she would be happy with finding and dating pottery shards for her big presentation to the Anthropology Department, she secretly hopes to make an earth-shattering discovery of some kind. She recently took an elective in Ancient Languages and is hoping to travel next summer to Greece.

Smithsonian
National Museum of Natural History

This page is part of the Smithsonian's The Secret in the Cellar Webcomic, an educational resource from the Written in Bone exhibition, February 2009 – 2011.