

Roles: Janet

Janet is the assistant county archaeologist (Planner II) and Assistant Director of The Lost Towns Project. As a cultural resources planner, she is responsible for subdivision review, management of various field projects, and geophysical survey. Janet holds a B.A. in Anthropology and a M.A. in American Studies, both from the University of Maryland, College Park. Her many research interests include archaeological and historic sites preservation and public interpretation.

Smithsonian
National Museum of Natural History

This page is part of the Smithsonian's The Secret in the Cellar Webcomic, an educational resource from the Written in Bone exhibition, February 2009 - 2011.